August 11, 2008 - Raleigh, NC - Vetted International, Ltd. (www.vetted-intl.com) and its subsidiary companies are moving their World Headquarters less than one mile from its current location in Raleigh, North Carolina to One Renaissance Center.

In an effort to better serve its employees and clients, Vetted chose a larger facility to accommodate its rapid growth, improve security, and implement scalable systems by centrally locating its data center, global leadership, marketing, and customer service.

'Centralizing our critical departments and assets in combination with keeping up to date with improved security measures to protect our employees and client's data was the driving force in making this move,' said Brian Sjostedt, Vetted President & CEO.

Vetted International's relocation to One Renaissance Center in Raleigh, in combination with relocating its data center from Texas includes expanded floor space, digitally encrypted voice communication systems, enhanced sound masking, improved fire suppression systems & climate control, and scalable physical and electronic security measures.

'Our new facilities will enable us to physically expand and update technology to exceed industry standards as those opportunities present themselves.'
